Tax Peking correspondent of the N. C. Daily News takes us to task thus mildly venturing to criticise the action of Mr. HOLCOMBE in 'reference' to the personal liberty of the Ray. Mr. Chosserr :- " It "is quite out of place in this connexion "for a Hongkong newspaper to read us "a lecture on the inadvisability of mer-"chant and missionary Consuls. One of "the ablest and most amisble of men "that have represented the United States | soywhere throughout Kores." These terms are "in Ohina was a missionary. No one "is better known or respected than Dr "Williams." Could anything be feebler or more illogical than this? Why should be out of place for a Hongkong newspaper to criticise the action of the U. S. Charge d'Affaires at Peking? Is the Colony too distant from the Chinese metropolis, or is it out of our sphere to comment on matters not occurring under our immediate eye. Perhaps our kindly critic will explain. Because Dr. WELLS WILLIAMS is an eminent sincloque and a highly respected missionary, it does not follow that he was fitted for the discharge of diplomatic functions. We never heard that his management of the affairs of the U. S. Legation was characterised by exceptional ability. But supposing that it was, aupposing that he was a model Minister, and raised the dignity and influence of the Great Republic in the estimation of the Mandarine, one swallow does not coaks Queen's road, at didnight on Tuesday, and he of an epidemic disease. a summer, and our argument against missionary diplomats and consult still holds good. The assertion that " no one is better and previous position had not fitted him for the post of Representative of a fire class Power at Pering. We are et prepared to maintain this position, and feel convinced that it is endorsed by near every American subject in China, outside of course, the missionary body. That the imprisonment for stealing a piece of brass from Peking correspondent of our Shanghai more ing contemporary should defend Mr. Hot. the bress off. COMPE, and take exception to our remarks on the appointment of missionaries consuls. &c., is not, however, much to wondered at for his letter leaves us little doubt as to lis connection the missionary body. The concluding sens severely out one of her fingers. tence of his letter alone would be sufficient to utablish that faut, while his reference to "us" proves his astionality. All this however, by the way; we refer to the na tionality and profession of the writer merel to show cause for the extraofdinary defenof Mr. Holcombe set up, and the naïve ide of the functions and privileges of a news paper displayed in the letter. THERE must be wheels within wheels in the and censured them for striking the old women. administration of affairs at Peking. It would be interesting to know how far the actions of the Imperial Government are controlled by Palace intrigue, how far they are directed by the wisdom or prejudices of certain powerful afficials. The real origin of many of the memorials addressed to the Throne is probably known to but a favoured few. very frankness of some of these curious decuments is assumed for a purpose, sometimes a personal one, and many even of those that THE CHRONICLE AND DIRECTORY, advocate reforms and improvement can hardly perhaps be taken au sérieux. Centors are certainly privileged persons, and have little to fear, apparently, from any outspoken memorials they may choose to address to the Throne. But the worthy scholar who thought he could stir up the Empress-Regent to greater activity in affairs of State, got a snubbing at least for his pains. Not personage, above the pale of criticism, but .Messrs. Kelly & Walsh, S'ghai. for some other reason of which the outside world may guess semething but can know nothing. We understand that the midical officer and has, we believe, very much less influence Mesus. Viuda de Loysaga & Co. in the guidance of affairs than formerly. The Emperer's reprimend, in that case, would be thoroughly understandable. A change board was landed after some delay, caused has certainly taken place in the policy of the Chinese Government since the death of the Empress-Regent being haid aside byill-health, Having once secured the reins of power the present holders of them do not care to be embarrassed by the active interference of the Empress-Regent. The assumption of mereover, might possibly lead to the sudden Zownfall of some mandarine now in high care to provide against. That the little Emhis signature no one supposes.

Secondly, Liuchin, which China declares, is her dependency, was destroyed and made one of the prefectures. Canght by experience, the thought always larks n the Chinese mind that Japan is waiting for the opportunity to seize on Kores, and they regard Japan's opening the latter on the basis of an independent state, as the insertion of the thin end, of the wedge for her own purposes. These are the Chinese views regarding Korea. Li Hang-chang's letter to a Korean gentleman clearly explains that this is so. He accused Japan in his letter, of aggressive inten. tions upon Korea, and adds that to enter into treaty relations with the western nations is the bost antidote to the danger. This is sentiment China has always cherished against Japan ; and now, receiving intelligence. about Japan's despatch of an expedition to Korea, from her envoy at Tokio, who, perhaps, exaggerated the story, the Chinese Government naturally took the alarm. THE EMPRESS REGENT AND HER

Many years ago the London papers took the liberty of hinting to Her Majesty that she ought to bestir herself more in public matters. Punch had seartoon of the Queen as Hermione in the Winter's Tale, with the legend, " Descend! "Tis time! Be stone no more." A very similar: reprotoh has now been levelled at the Empress Regent of China, whom no one ever presumed before to blame for not taking a sufficiently active part in the affairs of state. The youthful for Her Imperial Majesty in very vigorous style and his Decree embodies a rather amusing defence of the Empress against the animadversions of his contumectous subject, which he stigmatises as foolish and ill-advised.

Lust year the Grand Connoil were bonoured by verbal Decree, directing them in case of important business not to hesitate to request audience of Her Majesty on days other than those set apart for such audience. For more than a year, owing to Her guidance and authorisation, no detail of business, however unimportant, bus misparried. We have been just entreating Her to allow berself some relaxation and to attend to her health, and were She to resume, as formerly, the entire direction of affairs. We should feel even more disquist on Her account. Our unavoidable trouble and anxiety on this score was known, We thought, to all the officials and people of Our Empire; but it seems that Wan Shar-t'ang, although an officer in attendance as one of Our personal instructors, was alone ignorant of it. His present request is without doubt foolish and ill-considered. Let him be in this Decree.-N. C. Daily News.

The Iris, steel despatch hoat, steamed into Port Said the week of the bombardment of Alexandria, and moored Shareholders or not. opposite the Fgyptian man-of-war in the harbour. The Egyptian Captain was on shore, and boasted that he would probably soon have to take Iris. Ho adds that he would not injure her more than he could help, as he wanted her for himself. Acting upon orders received from Admiral Seymour, the Captain of the Iris sent a message to the Egyptian Commander that he would blow the Egyptian man of war into the air if she left moorings. Each night the Egyptian crow trained their gons on the torpedo potholes of the Iris so as to be ready in case hostilities broke out. Each night after dark the Iris was quietly warped a few yards backwards or forwards, so that when morning dawned the Egyptians had the pleasure of seeing their guns pointing at a harmless part of the opposite vessel. Had they fired during the night no harm would have occurred to the Iris, a torpedo from which would have at once tent the Egyptian man-ofwar and its boastful Captain to the bottom.
